

A Reader's Guide to Thought, Freedom & Craft

"I put this guide together for close friends asking what shaped the way I think, build, and live. These aren't books to pad a curriculum; they are high-leverage texts that provided me with mental clarity, discipline, and sovereignty. Read with a pencil, keep what serves you, ignore the rest."

— Marc Duboc (@promaa) · Paris, France

01 SOVEREIGNTY, FREEDOM & CLEAR THINKING

Man's Search for Meaning

01 VIKTOR E. FRANKL (1946) · LOGOTHERAPY

BEST FOR: When feeling overwhelmed or losing your sense of purpose.

Frankl survived Auschwitz and distilled the ultimate truth: you cannot control all circumstances, but you retain absolute sovereignty over your attitude.

— Find a "why" strong enough to outlast the collapse of any "how."

02 SYSTEMS, POWER & TECHNOLOGY

Crépuscule

02 JUAN BRANCO (2019) · INVESTIGATIVE PAMPHLET

BEST FOR: Inspecting the revolving doors and inner circles of French power.

The internal mapping of Parisian elite networks and financial backing is documented with surgical precision. An unvarnished look at power.

— An unvarnished anatomy of institutional incest in modern France.

03 CRAFT, SOLITUDE & THE INNER FORTRESS

A Philosophy of Solitude

03 JOHN COWPER POWYS (1933) · INNER LIFE

BEST FOR: Sinking into sensory calm during hyper-connected burnout.

Practical rituals—walking alone, observing wind and stone, deliberate silence—to build an unshakeable inner fortress against external noise.

— Cultivating your inner world is the only real shield against noise.

04 GREAT NARRATIVES & HUMAN TRUTHS

Promise at Dawn

04 ROMAIN GARY (1960) · AUTOBIOGRAPHY

BEST FOR: Rekindling fierce filial love, courage, and literary panache.

Gary's unforgettable tribute to his mother's boundless faith in him. Balances self-deprecating humor with extraordinary emotional gravity.

— The kind of book that makes you put it down and call your mother.
